Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Healthful cream of tartar, derived solely from grapes, refined to absolute purity, is the active principle of every pound of Royal Baking Powder.

Hence it is that Royal Baking Powder renders the food remarkable both for its fine flavor and healthfulness.

No alum, no phosphate—which are the principal elements of the so-called cheap baking powders—and which are derived from bones, rock and sulphuric acid.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Library Notes.

Mission study classes using the new text book "Christian Redemption" will find the principal biographies and other books of reference therein suggested in the usual place, on a shelf in the attack room to the right of the gate. This course of study on the Islands of the Sea will be very interesting, especially those chapters dealing with the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands.

"The Conquest of Arid America" is a subject which has been absorbing the attention of many practical men of science for more than a dozen years. One cannot fail to be interested in this subject as presented by Wm. E. Smythe. It is a most readable account of the triumphant march of fertility and prosperity across our great arid West, with great promise for the future embodied in the accomplishment of the present.

Wm. DeWitt Hyde, President of Bowdoin College, in "The College Man and the College Woman," deals with the personal, ethical, spiritual side of college life and with organization and administration only incidentally. He holds up high ideals, believing them attainable, and his book is in his own words a sympathetic interpretation and an intelligent appreciation of our American college students by one who has lived in close relations with many of them.

Dr. Crane's book on "The Second French Empire," while good history, is at the same time as delightful as a novel, throwing many side lights on the private life of people in France connected with the person and family of Napoleon III. A picture of Paris during the same period as seen by Dumas is given by Milton in "Dumas' Paris," while Miss Betham-Edwards writes in an informal way of "Home Life in France," as she finds it in this day.

Theatrical Notes.

H. B. Living and Dorothea Baird will end their run at the New Amsterdam Theatre Saturday evening, the 28th inst., and on Tuesday, the 30th inst., will be followed by Forbes Robertson and Gertrude Elliott in George Bernard Shaw's play "Cesar and Cleopatra."

Notwithstanding that Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Prince of India" has made the greatest hit scored in New York since the presentation of its companion piece, "Bun-Hur," it will remain at the Broadway Theatre but five weeks longer.

Chauncy Olcott, the popular comedian, will begin an engagement of two weeks at the New York Theatre next Monday evening, appearing as Richard Temple in the new Irish drama "Eileen Ashore," a romantic play written for him by Theodore Durt Sayre.

Through Trolley Route Abandoned. Announcement was made on Saturday last by the trolley department of the Public Service Corporation that through trolley service between Jersey City and Newark and Trenton would be discontinued after the Monday following. Lack of sufficient passenger traffic to justify a continuance of the through cars is the cause of the change.

When the line was first opened it did considerable business, but subsequent events have shown that much of the travel on it was due to the novelty. Since this has worn off, and particularly during the last few months, the through traffic has been particularly light. Through tickets which were on sale have been withdrawn.

Engineers say that no trolley route using the highways can successfully conduct a long distance route, as the necessary speed cannot be maintained.

Musical Instruction. Piano instruction given at residence or at home. Terms reasonable. Miss Minnie Birch, No. 25 Almiral street, Bloomfield.—Advt.

Shubert Theatre.

Clara Lipman, to use a threadbare phrase, has a charm that is all her own. She is arch, vivacious, chic, and yet respectful. Her laugh is infectious, and her ebullient humor gives a piquancy to her personality that no other comedienne possesses. Miss Lipman will be seen in Newark at the Shubert Theatre, October 22. She will enact the title roll in "Julie Bonbon," the comedy she wrote especially for her husband, Louis Man, who has achieved the crowning success of his artistic career as a Parisian boulevardier, transplanted to New York's Bohemian quarter. "Julie Bonbon" created a furore in New York last season, but was compelled to cut short her career while at the zenith of her popularity. After a run of nearly six months, the theatre in which the co-stars were playing changed hands and forced them to take to the road. The entire New York cast and production will be used in Newark. Matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

Proctor's Newark Theatre.

For the week of October 22d, at his Park Place Pleasure Palace, Mr. F. F. Proctor promises probably the most prodigious programme of peerless performers in polite vaudeville ever proffered to the patrons of this popular priced playhouse. As a head-line attraction is offered Mr. Edwards Davis & Co., who will present for the first time Mr. Davis' own dramatic composition "The Unmasking." This playlet, in two scenes, has met with remarkable success everywhere. A cast of six people is carried. A special feature of the great bill will be "The Gems," the latest European importation of a clever singing and musical act.
